BENCH.
At the opening of the District Court, in Charleston, on educaday morning, 7th inst., his honor Judge Magrath, and if there were any motions to be made or orders to baken by the gentlemen of the bar present His oner then asked if the Grand Jury had any presentment make, whereupon R. N. Goordin, Esq., foreman, id.—

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOR-It is understood to be May in Please York Howes—It is understood to be one of the functions of the Grand Jury to make presentments of noisances, and to suggest to the court and to the country such reforms in law, or in its administration, as may to them seem proper. These presentments are pre-dicated upon the stability of the government, and are designed to promote its gradual and steady progress to the highest civilization. Hence it was the purpose of this jury to lay before the court some matters suggested by the indictments submitted to them; but the events off yesterday seem to render this unnecessary now. On the arrival of the procession at the residence of the Judge, and in response to the leud calls of the people, Judge Magram appeared and addressed the crowd for about ten minutes. He said that it was the first time in many years that he stood before the people of Caarleston untraumelled in the expression of his views. That he stood there are a citizen of South Caroline, ready to defend her rights at any ani all hazards. That if the action of the Southern States, forced upon them by the North, should bring ruin and desolution to the country, it could not be charged upon the South for they had becaute we ongruntif for bearance and created to be a wirns, and to forbear longer uses a crime. He looked upon the actions of this day as the first gun of the revolution, the sound of which will be vibrated buck from the fifteen Southern States. He hoped the Southern States would be united, but if not, South Caroline would alone meet the lance. He concluded by saying that he would not detain the party longer, as it had been instimated to him that he would be called upon for an expression of his view at an early day.

J. B. D. Daflow, Esq., who was present, was loutly called upon for an expression of his views at an early day.

J B D DaBow, Esq , who was present, was loutly called for and responded. He said he was present there to congratulate their late ex Judge on the nobe position he had this day taken, and closed with some forcible remarks on reparate State action.

The procession then moved to the residence of Hon Wm. F. Coiczek, who addressed them upon the great topic of the day in behalf of prompt separate State action.

Cel. Jacobs and James Conner, Esq., were also serenaded and made appropriate responses.

Wm. F. Colcock, who addressed them upon the great topic of the day in behalf of prompt separate State action.

Cel. Jacobs and James Conner, Eq., were also sere naded and made appropriate responses.

The party next proceeded to the Mercury office, and most reciferously cheered R. B. Rhett, Jr., our worthy editor and proprietor (who is in Columbia), the Mercury, the Lone Star Fing which suspends in front of our office, and which waved over the heads of the serenaders. Mr. Engune Bratt, Jr., responded in behalf of his brother, as follows:

Frillow Chileran—By your high approval, the editor of the Charleston Mercury has been selected to represent you in the connects of the State, now assembled at Columbia in his name and in hit behalf i greet you here this evening, and thank you for the compliment of your serenade, as a tribute to the long labors of the Mercury. The highest reward in this world to which the labors of a man can sapire, is the approval and applance of his countrymen, as the cause of ones country is the highest sphere of labor in which his efforts may be directed. Gentlemen, it has been the high minsten of the Mercury for now more than thirty years, to labor and pleat in behalf of the interests of the people of South Carolina. Have there been any men, or has there been any organ in this State, during this long period, strenous laborious, bold, faithful, cloquont, those min have been the successive editions of the Mercury, and that organ has been the successive editions of the Mercury, and that organ has been the successive edition of the Mercury, and that organ has been the successive edition of the Mercury, and that organ has been the successive edition of the Mercury, and that organ has been the successive of the successive of the general season of a said season of the successive pour his day, in a figure of the successive of the successiv

They are dumb. The past has established its policy. The present vindicated it. The future will record its windom. I greet you, then, as friences in the great cause of Southern independence-for you all stand upon the policy and platform of the Mercury. We look for your steadfast support, and soon will dawn upon you the great southern confederacy. THE STATE HIGHTS FLAG.

[From the Charleston Marcury, Nov. 8.]

Yesterday, November the 7th, will long be a memorable day in Charleston. The tea has been initiated. Intense, though quiet excitement prevails throughout the community. The government officials, as our columns will show, have resigned. From early evening on Tucaday until two o'clock the next maring the Mercury office was crowded with anxious expectants of the news from New York. All day yesterday our builetin board was surrounded and our office filled with a continually flowing crowd. At twelve o'clock was unfuried from our windows, and stretched across the street, a red flux, with the palmetto and the lone star. A shout from below and twice three heatty cheers greeted its appearance. The Association of 1860 immediately assembled, and arrangements have been made for a public meeting to endorse the action of the Lagislature in the call of a State Convention to assemble as soon as practicable. The feeling of all hands is for prompt reparate State action. The feeds officers who have resigned their places are expected to address the meeting to assemble as soon as the Legislature shall have acted. Charleston is not behind the State, and will play her part in the grand drams now before us as becomes her intelligence, her stake and her civilization. On every lip is the stern cry write the libertal." The city of Charleston looks to its legislators, as far as lies in their

FLAG FOR THE SOUTHERN REPUBLIC.

One of our most wealthy and influential merchants, says the Charleston Mercury, who has given the subject much consideration, suggests the following as a suitable and apprepriate national banner for the Southern Confederacy:—The ground entirely blue, with a golden particular to the centre; a golden rattlessake twining round the stem of the palmetto, with its rattle sprung, head erect and tongue protruded. In the background, to the care of the tree and snake, a golden spread eagle, and a single golden star in the upper right corner, with the words "Rounf or More" on the opposite.

RESIGNATION OF THE HON. W. F. COLCOCK.

The inquiry has been frequently made of me, "What will you do if Lincoln is elected?" My reply has been, I will answer when the time comes. The time has come, and I now say, I will not serve under the enemy of my country, and whether South Carolina secedes, concedes or submits, I will resign my office.

WM. F. COLCOCK,

Collector of the Port of Charleston, S. C.

Collector of the Port of Charleston, S. C.

The crisis in our sfairs requiring a public expression from all holding government office, I deem it due to myself to state my position. I can perceive nothing which requires officers of the custom; to retire from office at the present time; on the contrary, every consideration of the duty we owe to the community, renders it obligatory upon them to defer their action. Their retention of office is in aid of the community. Their retirement would practically suspend all commerce, and be equivalent to a blockade, as nothing could enter or leave the port. I shall await the action of the State, and in any event shall stand or fall with her. Not being a leader in her councils, I await the call of those who are, and am ready at a moment to obey. Until that call be made, I see neither wisdom nor patriotize in any individual action on any wisdom nor patriotism in any individual action on my part. JOHN LAURENS, Naval Officer.

NORTH CAROLINA.

On the eve of "election day" a solemn prayer meeting for the preservation of the Union was held at Wake Forest College. North Carolina. The meeting was attended by large numbers of people, including the entire body of college students. A correspondent from this point adds.—The students of the college, however, gave wint to their patriotism on Friday last, in a less pious manner. Soon after sunset Lincoln was escorted in effigy to a gallows previously prepared, and in a most sciena manner suspended between earth and heaven, after the manner of mainfacture. As he was thus swinging an eulogy upon his character was pronounced by H Lausing manner of malefactors. As he was those savinging an eulogy upon his character was pronounced by H Lussing Burrows, a student from Richmond, Va., which, though short, was interrupted by the cheers of the assembled crowd. The effigy was allowed to harp through Saturday, and amid the shouts of the people and the noise of drums, was burnt that evacing. The event created some excitement throughout the county, but all passed off without any disturbance.

From the Toronto Leader, Nov 3 | THE FRESHENNIAL ELECTION.

The returns indicate the election of Liceota and Hamilia for French in and Vice President of the United States. If this should turn out to be the case, some of the Southern States appear to be ready to make a move towards carrying out the threat to withdraw from the Union. The Governor of South Carolina in their the Legislature to arm the State, but the latter had put the question of this it is should be necertained definitely whether Liceota he proposed by Engling about a simulation of the Union; for all yelected.
